Baldwin Calls On France and Reich To Work For Peace

Commons in London, Informed Britain Will Take Lead at Geneva for Lifting of Sanctions From Italy, Hears Premier Appeal for Peace Co-operation; Eden Scored by Lloyd George and A. Greenwood, Labor

Canadian Press and Associated Press

London, June 18.—Prime Minister Baldwin said in the House of Commons today collective security had failed.

He added: "If possible, it shall not fail again."

"I regard it as of first importance that Germany, France and ourselves should work for peace throughout all Europe side by side."

The Prime Minister's words came after Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had announced Great Britain would lead a move at Geneva for the lifting of League of Nations' sanctions from Italy.

Prime Minister Baldwin warned the House: "We, as trustees of the people, ought to remember if there is a war against this country nearer than the Mediterranean, they will pay for it on the first night with their lives. The first blow may come from the air."

Later, Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Liberal, said Foreign Secretary Eden was about to go to Geneva to smash the League of Nations.

MOST IMPORTANT TASK

Saying collective security had failed, Premier Baldwin declared: "If possible, it shall not fail again. . . . I regard it as of first importance that Germany, France and ourselves should work for peace throughout all Europe side by side."

The Prime Minister asserted the "part Germany can play for good or evil in Europe is immense."

OPPORTUNITY NOT FORESEEN

He conceded he could not see exactly when the next opportunity might come for the British, the Germans and the French to get together.

The effect of the new measure, which becomes law immediately, will be to permit marketing boards to get necessary control powers which they have been drawing from the federal legislation.

Clement R. Attlee, leader of the Labor opposition, wound up the debate with the announcement he and his colleagues would move for a vote of censure when debate is resumed next Tuesday.

NOT TO BE CONTINUED

Foreign Secretary Eden said: "His Majesty's Government, after mature consideration on advice which I, as Foreign Secretary, thought it my duty to give, has come to the conclusion there is no longer any utility in continuing these measures as a means of pressure on Italy."

Opposition members of the Commons shouted "Shame! Resign!" at Mr. Eden as he made the announcement.

From government benches there came loyal cheering.

Mr. Eden recited the occasions on which Great Britain had previously taken the lead in attempting to settle the Italo-Ethiopian war and said that since the League seemed to be perplexed, the British Government considered it to be its duty to take the lead again.

"No doubt it would be quite as easy for us not to do so and to follow somebody else," said Mr. Eden. "But I don't believe that is the right attitude for this country to take."

PROVINCE WILL APPEAL CASES

B.C. to Take Constitutional Issues to Privy Council

British Columbia is prepared to go to the Privy Council on all the Canadian Supreme Court's rulings are regarded as vitally affecting provincial interests, Premier Pattullo indicated.

The Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, which was held as valid by the Supreme Court, is said by the province to disturb provincial crown contracts with farmers. In this way it takes away the crown rights of the province to deal with its own financial agreements and sets a dangerous precedent, according to the government view.

The Bennett labor laws, minimum wage, hours of work and one day's rest in seven, are also regarded as a straight invasion of the provincial field, B.C. already having its own laws to deal with these matters.

It is expected Attorney-General Stinson will handle the appeals personally.

Fort William, June 18.—Attacked by a mysterious plague, the caterpillar hordes that for two weeks have been crawling across a wide section of northwestern Ontario is dying off by the thousands, according to reports received here today.

TIDAL WAVE ON GEORGIAN BAY

Canadian Press

Wirtton, Ont., June 18.—Local residents were perplexed today at a repetition here of the Georgian Bay tidal phenomenon which occurred two days ago at Meaford, Ont., forty miles east of the bay. A sudden inrush of water swirled forty feet beyond the shoreline at Colpoys Bay.

The hero of the tragedy was J. Maxwell, who suffered a broken arm. He was the only man who was able to move.

After the accident, with his companions laying around him, Maxwell climbed the steep bank, despite considerable pain, and walked several hundred yards to the relief camp for aid.

The relief men were just preparing to get up when Maxwell struggled into the camp.

He was immediately put under medical care while a crew from the camp, under Major R. M. McDonald, officer in charge, and Captain R. L. Lucky, the medical officer, rushed to the assistance of the others.

Chief H. W. Pecknold and Constable Gilbert Stancome of the Esquimalt police were called and they summoned the city police ambulance and the R.C.A.M.C. ambulance.

The injured men were rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where they arrived about 7 o'clock.

About fifteen minutes elapsed from the time Maxwell started up the bank to the time aid was brought.

ALL WERE CONSCIOUS

All the men were conscious when removed to the hospital. Rescuers spoke in glowing terms of the grit of Murcheson, a well-built red-headed man, who stoutly resisted panic of his serious injuries while being taken up the embankment to the ambulances.

At the point where the accident occurred there is practically a straight drop of thirty feet to a slight shelf, which slopes to the beach. It was on the relief camp grounds and about 300 yards from the camp buildings.

Civil War Threat Grows In China

Apprehension Increases As North-south Negotiations For Co-operation Collapse

Associated Press
Shanghai, June 18.—Reports of failure of peace negotiations between the two Chinese governments caused fresh apprehension of possible civil war today.

A peace conference in Human Province failed because the Nanking (central) government demanded virtually complete political and economic control over the Canton (southwest) administration, the reports declared.

Rumors of concentration of 100,000 northern soldiers in southern Human territory followed the reported collapse of the negotiations.

The southern representatives denying Nanking's demands, asked financial assistance and retention of political independence, it was informed, sources said.

NEW STRIKES IN BELGIUM

Police Face Picketers and Rioters With Machine Guns; Warn Foreigners

Associated Press

Brussels, June 18.—Police planted machine-guns on the streets corners of Liege today, but unruly strikers hit back with a fresh wave of disorders.

They fired a wooden bridge, stopped buses and poured cement in letter boxes.

Virtually all textile factories were affected by the spreading walkout movement.

The government forbade strikers in all provinces to picket on bicycles or to assemble in large groups.

German patrols occupied highways leading to Brussels to prevent Belgian strikers from entering suburbs and taking control of factories by

FORTY-HOUR WEEK

Authorities feared the walkout would reach into the capital despite a tentative agreement which granted workers' demands of a minimum wage, paid vacations, guarantees of varied occupations he learned to read.

At an age when most boys have few greater cares than learning the alphabet, Alexie was a rascapist. Later he was an apprentice to a mechanical draughtsman, an assistant cook on a Volga River steamer, a clerk to a lawyer, a tramp on the steppes, and a day laborer.

Sometimes within this succession of varied occupations he learned to read.

At the age of fifteen he went to the university town of Kazan. He was refused admittance, and got a job in a bakery.

The unbroken misfortune that assailed the young enthusiast so preyed on his mind that he attempted suicide in 1888 by shooting himself.

The bullet remained in his body and troubled him in later years.

WROTE PLAYS

About this time he came under the influence of the great Russian writers, Chekhov and Tolstoy. Chekhov advised him to write plays. From this encouragement came several plays, one of which, "The Lower Depths," had great success in Moscow and was played on Broadway in New York.

Among Gorky's first stories, "Chelik," or "Russian Wealth," received particular mention. He followed this with a series of stories on the life of the tramp—the "bozaiaki"—which he had been himself.

From almost the beginning of his literary life in 1892, Gorky worked revolutionary ideas into his books.

WAS WON OVER

Immediately following the overthrow of Kerensky, first premier after the revolution, Gorky was bitter against the Bolsheviks, attacking them in daily bulletins issued over his own name. Within the year, however, he was won over to the new order of things and had accepted appointment as chief of the Soviet Bureau of Propaganda. A few weeks later his wife became identified with the Bolshevik regime as an official of the department of education.

His speech was in answer to delegations from different parts of the House that the legislation did not go as far as it should in the line of nationalization.

The Prime Minister, replying to an interjection from Angus MacInnis, C.C.P., Vancouver East, said the C.C.P. group had tried to make the public believe the central bank was one that would supply the needs of private individuals.

Associated Press
London, June 18.—George Bernard Shaw, informed of the death of the Russian author, Maxim Gorky, said today:

"I dare say it's time for all us nineteenth century writers to clear out."

"You'd better prepare my obituary."

"You never know."

Clerk of Commons Testifies at Speaker's Privilege Inquiry at Ottawa

Canadian Press

Ottawa, June 18.—It has become the practice for a Speaker-Designate of the House of Commons to consult the clerk and sergeant-at-arms in advance of the meeting of a new Parliament about the appointment of the sessional staff. It was disclosed today. No appointments, however, are made by the Speaker until he has been appointed by the House and none was made at the opening of the present session.

This information was given to the House of Commons committee on privileges and elections by Arthur Beauchene, clerk of the House. The committee has been conducting an investigation into powers and privileges of the Speaker, particularly between dissolution of one parliament and meeting of the next.

Deliberations of the committee came to an abrupt conclusion with the sudden realization a quorum of members was not in attendance.

South Africa Is Firm on Sanctions

Canadian Press
Capetown, South Africa, June 18.—The South African press as a whole has expressed gratification at the reaffirmation by Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog of the Union of South Africa's adherence to sanctions.

The Cape Times said: "There can be no reproach against South Africa's straightforward cause. Time alone will tell if it is wise."

The Cape Argus applauded the resoluteness of Gen. Hertzog. It said that "even if South Africa ultimately has to fall into line with collective infidelity, it is impossible to feel confidence in the present capitulation to Signor Mussolini."

Prime Minister Hertzog said in the House of Assembly Tuesday evening that South Africa adhered to sanctions.

Toronto, June 18.—Cancellation of the natural Products Marketing Act by the Supreme Court of Canada in a judgment handed down yesterday, will directly affect the operations of the cheese and tobacco marketing boards of Ontario, Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture of Ontario, said here today.

It would undoubtedly do away with their compulsory powers, he said. The question was to what extent the producers could and would voluntarily arrange among themselves to continue similar operations.

Toronto, June 18.—"There is probably more confusion than was before," was Premier Mitchell Hepburn's terse comment on decisions of the Supreme Court of Canada yesterday on constitutionality of eight "reform" laws passed by the Bennett government in 1934 and 1935.

HOUSE PASSES PENSION BILL

Third Act on Veterans' Problems Approved By Commons

Canadian Press

Ottawa, June 18.—The third of three acts dealing with returned soldier problems, all the recommendations of a special committee this session, passed through the House of Commons yesterday evening. It amends the War Veterans' Allowance Act in several major respects.

Only one clause of the bill was debated, the others passing as quickly as read. It was the one enlarging the special field for veterans' allowances to men fifty-five years or older who served in a theatre of war and, in the opinion of the board, are incapable of maintaining themselves because of "disability, pre-aging and general unfitness."

A few opposition members wanted the clause enlarged to take in all returned soldiers who were unemployed.

Pension Minister Power opposed a change on the ground of economy and because it never was the intention of the act to make it a general relief medium. He said to drop the general age provision to fifty-five would increase the cost by $6,000,000 in ten years or $46,000,000 if it were dropped to fifty.

The bill was sent to the Senate for final ratification.

URGES CREDIT BE SUPPORTED

Canadian Press

Jasper, June 18.—Reputation of public obligations could only lead to destruction of Canada's most valuable asset — her credit, W. T. K. Collier of Montreal declared in his report to the annual convention of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada here today.

"Canada, as a young and growing debtor country had until recently an enviable record in outside markets for respecting her obligations," the chairman of the eastern district said. "To judge from the action of certain municipalities and provincial authorities it would almost seem that calculated efforts have been made to destroy a most valuable asset."

The past month witnessed a "disregard for obligations," he said, and created "apprehension among those who play a responsible part in maintaining a free flow of credit abroad."

In all cases of default under its jurisdiction, he said, the Quebec Municipal Commission had exercised valuable supervision. Appointment of an electrical commission in the province to safeguard utilities was announced. Approval of the commission was necessary to the listing of such securities.

SENATE PASSES GROUP OF BILLS

Burst of Speed Shown By Upper Chamber at Ottawa

Canadian Press

Ottawa, June 18.—The Senate yesterday launched another drive on its legislative side and before the attack had terminated it had put nine government measures through their final reading. Four additional government measures reached second reading and were sent over to today for consideration in committee.

Bills accorded third reading yesterday were those to set up a Department of Transport; establish a Department of Mines and Resources; amend the Excise Act in line with the budget; provide for holding Dominion by-elections; amend the Judges' Act to add two justices to the Ontario Supreme Court; amend the Canada Shipping Act extending definition of minor waters of Canada; assist towards employment of former members of the forces by a veterans' assistance commission of three; amend the Dairy Industry Act to legalize sale of three-pound prints of butter and to standardize weights of cheese packages; amend the Juvenile Delinquents' Act to provide for the prosecution of a person who has, after committing an offence, passed eighteen years of age and whose offence was not discovered until more than six months after that time.

Amendments were made to a number of the measures, but none of the changes is contentious.

The sitting saw Senator J. H. King, Liberal, Victoria, in his old role of piloting through veterans' legislation. He is a former Minister of Pensions and Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment.

Veteran M.P. Suggests Force

Canadian Press

Ottawa, June 18.—Both verbal battles are common in the House of Commons, but today a threat of physical combat hovered over the Chamber with two sturdy members of diversified ages as the protagonists.

Angered by repeated charges from J. F. Pouliot, Liberal member for Temiscouata, Que., against Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, and members of the former government, Hon. C. H. Cahan, Conservative member for Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George, bluntly told the House yesterday that if Mr. Pouliot persisted some members would have to vindicate their integrity by physical force.

Mr. Cahan is seventy-four years old and Mr. Pouliot is forty-six. Mr. Cahan is more than six feet tall and correspondingly broad, one of the biggest men in the House. Mr. Pouliot is short but stocky and quick in his movements.

"I say the attitude and conduct of the honorable gentleman (Mr. Pouliot) proceeding from day to day," said Mr. Cahan, "is such that honorable members in order to vindicate their personal integrity will have to exercise it by force outside this Chamber."

DOES NOT FEAR HIM

Mr. Pouliot retorted: "Sir, I fear only God, and the honorable member for St. Lawrence-St. George has been dreaming. I say he has been having a nightmare."

The scene one of the stormiest of the session, with points of order and protests being tossed about the House, arose when Mr. Pouliot returned to his attack on the Conservative leader about the guarantee of a Canadian Pacific Railway loan in 1933.

Mr. Bennett made a brief statement, saying all the documents Mr. Pouliot charged had been removed from government files had been submitted to a committee of the House last session and were printed in the records of the committee.

FOREST CREWS ARE GREAT TOTAL

Canadian Press

Ottawa, June 18.—Woods operations in 1934 employed about 200,000 individuals, according to estimates made by the Department of Trade and Commerce, while textile industries employed 115,600 in the same period. The information was tabled in the House of Commons yesterday at the request of J. H. Leclerc, Liberal, Shefford, Que.

On the basis that one man-day unit of labor is required to produce 500 board feet of lumber, it was estimated Canada's production in 1934 would have required the labor of 74,000 men working 300 days. It was estimated, however, because of the shorter season of lumbering and all the incidental activities entering into this production, at least 200,000 individuals had a part in it.

Secretary of State Rinfret Issues Statement on King Edward's Day

Canadian Press

Ottawa, June 18.—Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State, issued a statement yesterday reminding the Canadian people June 23, King Edward's birthday, will be a public holiday.

His statement said the birthday of the reigning sovereign is a public holiday by statute and without proclamation. The only time a holiday is proclaimed in connection with the King's birthday is when it falls on a Sunday, and it is necessary to designate the following Monday as a holiday.

The statement added the day would "no doubt be observed generally as the birthday of King George V was observed during the reign of the late sovereign."

The Sockeye Treaty

AT LAST THE UNITED STATES Senate has ratified the Sockeye Salmon Treaty signed in Washington by Hon. Vincent Massey for Canada and Mr. Frank B. Kellogg for the United States back in 1930. Some amendments or reservations have been written into the original document, however, but it is believed that the Dominion Parliament will offer no serious objections to them unless they conflict with this country's interests. They will require additional negotiation and until the matter is settled and the pact approved at Ottawa joint action will not begin. The main point is that after more than a quarter of a century both this country and the neighboring republic are ready now to inaugurate effective measures to restore an immensely valuable industry and preserve it for all time.

News of the action by the Upper House at Washington came as a surprise to Canadian fishery officials; but it was a message of joy to Mr. John P. Babcock, who may rightly call himself the father of the treaties which Canada has ratified on three occasions, only to see them nullified by the United States Senate. Until the details of the amendments or reservations are available, of course, it will not be possible to assess the value of this latest move.

According to Mr. W. Gray, secretary of the B.C. Fishermen's Protective Association, the fishermen of this province have tentatively approved some of the amendments made in the treaty; they are those proposed by the Washington State fishing interests, and include the suggestion that an advisory committee be set up.

"However," he declares, "the amendment providing for advisory instead of administrative powers for the commission is not favorably received here. British Columbia fishermen are seeking definite action and they believe the commission, under the present set-up, will be nothing but a 'rubber stamp.' It is doubtful whether Ottawa will agree to the amendment for an eight-year investigation, as both the Dominion and provincial authorities have compiled exhaustive reports on the Fraser River fishing situation covering the past forty years. Further investigation would be looked upon as unnecessary duplication."

As far as British Columbia is concerned—the Canadian Parliament also—the treaty of 1930 is a measure fully capable of achieving what it was intended to achieve by its authors. Unless there are serious reservations or amendments, therefore, that still will remain the basic framework of the agreement which we may presume ultimately will become operative. In any event, the prospect of practical measures to end a controversy which has seriously endangered a valuable industry is encouraging.

Churchillian Fantasy

R. T. HON. WINSTON CHURCHILL, stormy petrel of British politics, Conservative, then Liberal, then Conservative again, and finally what is known as a Constitutional, has been taken to task for declaring in the House of Commons recently that "since the arrival of Herr Hitler in power three years ago the Germans have spent £1,500,000,000 (approximately $7,500,000,000) sterling upon warlike preparation, directly or indirectly," and in a single year, 1935, from £600,000,000 (approximately $3,000,000,000) to £800,000,000 (approximately $4,000,000,000) was "spent on armaments in Germany."

It was only natural that such a statement from one so much in the political limelight as Mr. Churchill should receive considerable publicity, accompanied, of course, with a good deal of criticism from his fellow countrymen. We are told that his most formidable critic seems to be Professor William Bone, Fellow of the Royal Society, and head of the Department of Technology at the Imperial College of Science in London.

In "The Nineteenth-Century and After," Professor Bone conducts a critical examination of Germany's rearmament. He says in part: "The expenditure of £1,500,000,000 on armaments in three years by any country would involve such prodigious industrial effort as could not be hidden; and it would assuredly be reflected somewhere in its finances or industrial statistics. For the sum in question is nearly twice the present total annual revenue of Great Britain, 50 per cent greater than the whole of the capital sunk in British railways, and more than three and half times greater than the capital sunk in all British authorized gas and electricity undertakings put together. It would suffice to build nearly 200 35,000-ton battleships, or as many Queen Marys. And it certainly could not have been effected without such serious dislocations in Germany's iron and steel industries as would, so to speak, have shattered from the housetops, but which in fact seem not to have been observed, save in Churchillian dreams." Professor Bone admits that while German rearmament in the last year or so has not been negligible, he terms Mr. Churchill's recent allegations as "gross exaggerations unworthy of credence."

Nobody is able to forecast just what Mr. Churchill will say at any given moment. In previous days, when he wanted to depart from his first Conservative love and become a Liberal, this is what he said of the Conservative party—as quoted more than ten years ago in this newspaper—"The Tory party is a party of vested interests—corruption at home, aggression to cover it up abroad, the trickery of tariff juggling, the tyranny of a party machine, sentiment by the bucketful, patriotism by the imperial pint, the open hand at the public exchequer, and the open door at the public house, dear food for the millions, and cheap labor for the millionaire."

In justice to Mr. Churchill, despite his allegations in regard to Germany's rearmament, it must be said that his view of Toryism, when he wanted to become a Liberal, was by no means far from the mark.

A Fascist Tie-up

LONDON REPORTS NEGOTIATIONS for German participation in Italian plans for exploitation of the newly-acquired territory and putative wealth of Ethiopia are well advanced. A German industrialist's mission has already been in Rome. There have been talks in Berlin with representatives of Italian financial and industrial interests.

Through what is being arranged German railroad and construction industries are now virtually certain to participate in the Ethiopian colonization schemes of the Italian government. Included in these schemes is one for the construction of a new railway to put out of business the French Djibouti-Addis Ababa line. German construction industries may also share in the building of small, light industries to be established locally and in the supplying of agricultural machinery to intending colonists.

Thus, it is pointed out, with extreme rapidity the door to most of the important business to be done in Ethiopia is being closed, with the Italians and Germans comfortably inside it, and the rest nowhere. Also, there is the support the arrangement will give to essential branches of the armament industry in Germany.

Significant in the general European line-up is the forging of a new and important link in the chain of aggressive interests which is beginning to bind the two fascist powers so closely together for the furtherance and consolidation of their designs.

Watsonian Philosophy

AT THE VANCOUVER ROTARY Club's "Pioneers' Day" luncheon yesterday, Mr. H. H. Watson, former member of the provincial Legislature and for long a prominent citizen of the Terminal City, said "what a good many young fellows need nowadays is a good, swift kick in the pants."

Those who are privileged to know genial "Harry" Watson personally, who has lived in Vancouver for nearly half a century, would become fleet of foot if they knew it was to be his destiny to administer the aforesaid "rebuke" to the raiment which covers the trunk down to the pedal extremities. He looks almost as robust now as he did when he sat in the local House—from, by the way, 1909 until the end of the session of 1916—and if he were to give his mind to it, and he felt the punishment deserved, a "kick" from him would be both swift and powerful.

But Mr. Watson, as one of that distinguished band of pioneers who have grown grey in the task of building the hamlet of '86 into the metropolis of '36—said most emphatically that "there are some mighty fine young fellows today, but the trouble with a great many is they all want to go through university . . . a young fellow is no good until he makes good on his own."

There is a good deal to be said for this bit of Watsonian philosophy. "Harry" Watson has the type of mental outlook—not to mention the physical capacity—which sees a thing through. Forty-eight years a citizen of Vancouver permits him to unfold a picture of progress that must gladden his heart.

Notes

An item in an inquiry column asks how to identify old China. If Japan keeps on, the use of a magnifying glass may be the answer.

A scientist says that a flat chest may be a sign of intelligence. This news will be barred from Italy so long as Mussolini appears in public.

Canada's Supreme Court has shown itself almost as unsympathetic with the Bennett New Deal legislation as the United States Supreme Court has been with the experimental measures of the Roosevelt New Deal.

After the hitch-hiking requests encountered on a motor drive up the Island Highway one is led to reflect that too many people want to thumb their way through life, riding at someone else's expense—that of the government, the community, or a benefactor.

The reduced fare schedules of the railroads have been in effect only a few days, but news from the east is that the increase in passenger traffic is already encouraging. Railroads in parts of the south resorted to the lower fares two or three years ago, and continue to maintain them and prosper. A start has been made in stepping up the railroad's payloads.

Loose Ends

Up in Omineca the pigs go hungry and the cows unmilked at a time like this—Caddy is being held out on us—the Finns are mad—and so is the weather.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

DEMOCRATS

ON THE UNIMPEACHABLE word of a member of the British Columbia Legislature we have it that strange and moving things are happening in the great northern constituency of Omineca. Mr. George Murray, of Lillooet, is authority for the public statement that of Omineca, moved to its utter depths, by the present by-election campaign, has ceased its ordinary activities altogether. So excited are the farmers about the election, says Mr. Murray, that they are failing to sow their crops and milk their cows.

There is something inspiring, indeed, to any lover of democracy in the thought of an Omineca farmer pausing in the middle of the furrow, leaving his plough and his horses and trudging home to meditate on health insurance. It makes you realize the strength of our political system when you know that the pigs of Omineca are getting thin for lack of feeding because their owners are arguing with one another about our sinking funds. And you must admire the public spirit of a man whose cow is fairly bursting with milk because he has views on finance which he must expound to his neighbors.

Down here in Victoria, about 11,000 voters didn't bother to vote in our by-election at all. We wouldn't stop ploughing or milking or feeding to perform our political duties. We wouldn't miss a movie to go to the polls. Up in Omineca, though the fields go unploughed, the pigs unmilked, the stout peasantry will still uphold our faltering democracy. The natives revel in this great crisis, but I dare say the cows and the pigs will be glad when it's over.

HOLD OUT

IT SEEMS that the death of Cadborosaurus, the sea serpent, was exaggerated. I have it from Mr. C. F. Eagles that Cadborosaurus is still alive and well, and Mr. Eagles should know.

It was he who sighted the creature near Chatham Island on October 1, 1933, and later made a sketch of him, which he has printed on a postcard to send to his friends. Mr. Eagles kindly sent me one of these pictures and it shows Cadborosaurus to be sixty feet long and eight feet wide, and to have a cynical leer on his face as if he were eying Victoria with contempt.

These features distinguish him from any other sea serpent, and Mr. Eagles assures me that the monster washed ashore near Aberdeen, Wash., which I took for Cadborosaurus recently, was only a giant squid.

This is a great relief to me. It must be a still greater relief to Mr. Eagles, who asserts on his postcard that he has invented and copyrighted the name Cadborosaurus and picture of him, but he has been generous in sharing his property with the community at large. Mr. Eagles, who seems to have such an influence on him, had better invite Cadborosaurus back to these waters pretty soon or people will begin to believe that he has indeed broken Mr. Eagles's copyright and gone and died on him.

So far as I am concerned, I shall not attempt to disturb this proprietary interest. Mr. Eagles can have Cadborosaurus and welcome, but he might let the public look at him occasionally, especially during the tourist season. He should stop holding out on us.

MAD FINNS

A FEW DAYS AGO the Associated Press carried this dispatch from Washington, D.C.: "Finland notified the United States today it would meet its regular semi-annual war debt installments of $164,315 on June 15. The little Baltic republic is the only war debtor nation that has not defaulted on obligations to this country."

Our Mr. Aberhart is accused of being dishonest because he is defaulting on his interest payments. Apparently he is going to have plenty of company.

Why Finland bothers to pay the United States no one seems to know. Perhaps the Finns are all mad. How was United States, of course, ever to expect to get the money from the others when, obviously, it could never be paid. So now everybody should be satisfied except the American taxpayer and nobody ever worries about him.

RAIN

DO YOU EVER see such weather in June?" said Mrs. Noggins, on the way to town today. "Well, you know, the way it keeps rainin' makes you begin to wonder if it ain't a vengeance from 'eaven on us for our wickedness and sin. My boy, Alf—Alf is a plumber, you know, and very scientific and all like that—well, Alf don't believe in 'eaven, because 'e's got too much to do with bathtubs and basins and pipes and all like that, and it kind of 'ardens a man. But Alf says 'e's readin' in a paper where a French fella, one of them scientists, says as 'ow the weather all over the world is upset now because all these radios shootin' rays into the air 'a' messed up the atmosphere something awful, and we won't 'ave no more good weather as long as the radios is goin'."

"It sounds very likely to me. But even if it's proved that it's the radios wot's doin' it and spoilin' the weather and the crops and everything, do you think people will give 'em up?

"Why, bless you, sir, no. People would rather keep their radios, and let it rain all the time. They would 'ang on to all them crooners and fox-trot orchestras even if it meant 'avin' snowstorms and cyclones continual. You don't believe it, eh? Well, ain't the world sick all the time because it won't live 'ealthy? They'd rather get false teeth than eat plain food, wouldn't they? They'd rather get fat than give up their automobiles and walk, wouldn't they?—meanin' no offence to you, sir, you bein' a farmer, or almost. Well, all these drug stores would close up, only people would rather take a pill than live 'ealthy. Machinery is puttin' half—everybody out of work and every time they get a new machine thousands of men go on the dole, but we'll rather have the whole country unemployed than give up a single vacuum cleaner or electric washer."

"That's why I ain't countin' on the radios bein' stopped just to fix the weather. The radios will keep on goin' and it'll keep on rainin' an' if they don't take some of them crooners off the air we'll most likely have earthquakes before long."

SEVERAL THINGS TO CONDEMN

To the Editor:—In a letter to the press, Mrs. Corinne E. Blandy blames gangster films for poisoning the mind of the youth. I would like to supplement her thought by not alone condemning the movies and the penny horribles, but also the heads of the various municipalities for refusing adequate relief and a firmer footing to our future (loyal) citizens in our so-called Christian communities.

WILFRED C. SUMMERFIELD,

POST-ELECTION FEARS

To the Editor:—Mr. Going's statement as published in the press after winning the by-election in the municipality was, I think, quite uncalled for, and I, among others, are wondering whether the efforts extended on his behalf are not after all wasted.

"Not a victory for myself, but a defeat of the Ratepayers' Association as at present constituted," seems to "Consumers" are not aided by the artificially raised price of marketing board vegetables.

"Growers" are not aided by these high prices because parasites eat up the profits before the returns reach the farmers.

Only last year the board admitted that many Vancouver Island farmers lost 90 per cent of their season's crops which have rotted in the warehouses of the marketing board officials.

Mr. Maitland ought to know that if "white" farmers are being ruined by marketing boards, the "yellow" farmers are even worse treated by these officials.

Continuing his exposition of the "yellow peril," the Vancouver orator appeared to be shocked by the news that Mrs. McClung advocates votes for Orientals and in his letter to June 6 R. D. Harvey also stated that Victoria electors were "amazed" to learn this.

At a time when both Liberal and Conservative parties in B.C. are strongly condemning the enfranchisement of Orientals and all those who are in favor of it, it certainly takes a very courageous Liberal supporter to speak in this way.

Canada needs more citizens who are broadminded and dare to say what they honestly believe and think.

Victoria should be proud of British citizens of this calibre and no one should be "shocked" or "amazed."

It is doubtful whether misleading statements about Orientals are in the best interest of British Columbia.

MUN. HOPE.

PENALTIES

From The London Spectator
A historian of rural England has been seeking, hitherto in vain, for the authorship of the following Hudibras-like lines:

The law locks up the man or woman
Who steals a goose from off the Common;
But leaves the man or woman loose
Who steals the Common from the goose.

It would be interesting to know the name of the epigrammatist, but historically interesting lies chiefly in the date. In what year did the lines make their first public appearance?

Domestic Science and Manual Training Handicraft Seen

Parents of South Park and George Jay Schools yesterday visited the two institutions to inspect displays of work in home economics, manual training and elementary art completed by the children during the year.

Expressions of appreciation for the high standard of work shown were voiced by the visitors following fashion parades and general surveys of the exhibits on display.

Approximately 300 gathered in South Park auditorium where samples of woodwork and needlework were on view. The exhibits were all made by students under W. Pieniederth in the manual training division, and Miss Beth Ramsay in the girls' department.

A. A. Campbell, principal of the school, and members of his staff welcomed the visitors. Mrs. J. S. Skillings and D. S. Cameron, judges of work, were introduced by Mrs. G. Ingledew, president of the James Bay Parent-Teacher Association, who sponsored the event.

At a meeting in the City Hall yesterday afternoon the committees decided to take that action after discussing the question and noting that Victoria one time had been a free port.

Members of the city committee include Aldermen Archie Wills, chairman and Aldermen James Adam, R. A. C. Dewar and S. H. Okell. Duncan MacLennan and George Beck represented the Chamber of Commerce at the meeting.

In order to bring before the council data which would disclose what any claim Victoria may have to free port privileges will be right by the business and trade development committee and the Chamber of Commerce a special group on the free port question from H. R. Pringle, city solicitor.

REFUGE OF LOYALISTS

The war of the Revolution ended in 1783, and thousands of American colonists remained loyal to England. Rather than remain in the new United States, these loyalists moved north into Canada, the greater number of them settling in what is now St. John, New Brunswick. So numerous were they that they brought about the separation of New Brunswick from Nova Scotia, as a separate province.

Selections by the rhythmic band of Division XI opened a splendid programme of entertainment in the auditorium. Group songs were presented by the older girls before students of the home economics department paraded in dresses of their own make. The frocks brought warm acclaim from the women visitors, while the men paid tribute to the excellent workmanship shown in the boys' manual training division.

Tea and refreshments, furnished by the girls of the domestic science class, were served under the direction of Miss C. M. Martin, teacher in that department.

"Folly and Farewell"

By MARIE BLIZARD

BEGIN HERE TODAY

LINDA BOURNE, twenty years old, pretty, is left almost penniless by the sudden death of her father.

PETER GARDNER, newspaper reporter, helps her get a job writing society news. Linda is in love with DIX CARTER, but he goes abroad to study singing. When Peter asks her to marry him she agrees, but postpones the wedding.

HONEY HARMON, film star, comes to Newton, making a "personal appearance" tour. She buys a scenario written by Linda. Linda goes to Hollywood and there, expressing ideas that are really Peter's, she acquires a reputation for being able to discover new stars.

At a party given by Honey Harmon, Linda meets BASIL THORNE, director. She goes out into the night alone. Suddenly Thorne appears beside her, takes her in his arms and kisses her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Linda refused to accept the threat in Honey's voice. There was no reason for it; therefore it couldn't exist. Smiling and friendly she said good night to Honey and to Basil Thorne separately, and went to her room. Sunday she pleaded, work, breakfasted privately, and spent the morning reading. In the afternoon she gathered up a foursome for bridge and at 5 she left without saying more than the most casual banalities to Basil Thorne.

But, returned to her apartment in Beverly Hills, her gaze wandered toward the telephone and each time it rang, exhilaration lifted her spirits. She had her as swiftly as she heard a voice that was not Thorne's.

She wasn't in love with him. She never would be. The what was it? Linda took an afternoon off—literally—to analyze the fascination she had for him and discover why she seemed to be living in constant anticipation of seeing him again. Being honest with herself, she admitted she wanted him to kiss her again.

"So what's what it is?" Linda said to herself admitting that the magnetism of Thorne was purely physical and yet, being a woman, she rationalized. Linda was romantic and she was a gentlewoman. She refused to accept this reason for his attraction.

She fitted him into the role of the man a girl dreams of. She knew all about the other women in his life—Cora Jarrett had told her about them—but she let herself go to the extent of believing that she might be the one woman.

The reasoning part of her mind told her that it wasn't and wouldn't be, but the imaginative side told her that it would be intriguing to make sure.

For five days Thorne didn't telephone her. That didn't surprise Linda. She expected that he would play his game that way. He knew he had made an impression; now he would let her wonder a bit, he reckoned without Linda's purposefulness. Knowing the situation between Honey and Thorne, she decided she would not see him.

But for once Linda did not abide by her own decision. Basil Thorne telephoned her the sixth day of that week and asked her to dine at his house. To her own surprise, she accepted, and spent the next hour in a fever of dressing. Her hair wouldn't behave. The red frock looked too bold the white one too virgin, the black one too dressed-up. She wore a frosty gray, pinned viols at the waist, and flung a mask cap over her shoulders. She was glad that she was extravagant about clothes. She laughed a little at herself as she put "mad-money" (a hang-over from a girlhood that seemed long ago) into her velvet purse.

Speeding over the smooth roads to Brentwood and Thorne's palatial "shack," as she called the eighteen rooms, she reminded herself that she was a grown woman, capable of handling any situation, and that a man only took advantage of a woman when the woman wanted him to. While many men had made love to her in Hollywood, none had presumed to treat her as a woman other than she was. And while she was telling herself these things, her excitement mounted and made her flushed and lovely when she stepped into the great hall of Thorne's house.

He was not there to greet her. Linda was accustomed to bad manners. She had met them frequently in the last year, but she was astonished that Thorne had been guilty of such bad taste. A Chinese butler took her wrap. She touched a lipstick to her mouth, patted her hair and lit a cigarette. Then she strolled into the living-room.

There was an eight-foot lounge before the hearth and, reclining in unlovely slumber, dressed for dinner with a dressing gown in place of his dinner jacket, was her host! He was snoring gently. Not that the "gently" part helped. He might have trumpeted and the effect would have been no worse. Fastidious

Parent-teacher Group Meets

Duncan, June 18.—The Duncan Parent-Teacher Association met in the K. of P. Hall on Tuesday evening, with visitors from Cobble Hill, Chemainus and Lake Cowichan.

S. R. Kirkham, the president, gave a review of the year's activities. The nominating committee, to bring names before the meeting in September, was appointed as follows: Mrs. F. Driver, F. J. Wilmott and R. A. Thorpe.

Dr. W. B. Clayton, who has just returned from an extended trip to New Zealand, consented to show lantern slides and give an address at the September meeting.

Mrs. A. Leeming and R. A. Thorpe were appointed to go to Chemainus to explain a project of forming a district council of the P.T.A.

Mrs. V. Bigwood and L. Blanchard were the winners at a "Dutch" auction.

The musical programme consisted of community singing, a quartette by Mrs. Bigwood, Mrs. W. Dobson, F. Parfitt as accompanist, and vocal solos by Mrs. V. Bigwood, with Miss Kippin at the piano.

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Medicinal proprietary foods are results of attempts to take advantage of new facts, discovered in relation to essentials of the human diet.

The proprietaries are foods of a previous era frequently lacking vitamins and mineral salts.

They also were over-rich in carbohydrates. As a result, the producers were able to show pictures of very fat babies, which, however, may not have been healthy babies.

When properly diluted with water or when made up with milk, some of the prepared foods now available approximate the composition of breast milk. In some, the fat is a mixture of vegetable and animal fats, in an attempt to imitate the physical and chemical qualities of the fat found in breast milk.

These proprietary foods, in most instances, are somewhat more expensive than the milk mixtures which may be made up at home, their chief advantage being their ease of preparation.

Specialists in infant feeding do not quite agree whether the synthetic mixtures of fat are more easily absorbed, or more easily digested, by the baby than the fat of cow's milk.

Other baby foods consist largely of dried milk in addition to sugars. Some contain milk, cane sugar, starch, dextrin, maltose, vitamins A and B, and a variety of mineral salts.

Malted milk also is used in infant feeding. This consists of one-third dried skimmed milk and two-thirds extra sugars, such as dextrin and maltose. There also are malted foods which are chiefly mixtures of dextrin and maltose. Physicians frequently recommend these as supplementary foods, because of their value in furnishing calories and in aiding the baby to gain weight.

Other special preparations, such as lacto acid milk, milk powder, protein milk, and various cereal and fruit feedings, should be used only when prescribed by the doctor.

Sometimes you may hear that your neighbor's child is doing remarkably well with a special type of proprietary or patent food. That should not be taken as evidence that your baby will do equally as well.

Every baby is a special problem. It is not wise to experiment with strange foods without knowing that they are especially fitted for your baby.

Malted milk, there's an extra, a boy, who lives at my boarding house who says he used to know you," one of them said to her one morning. "His name is Dixon Carter."

Miss Bourne didn't flutter a single black eyelash. She didn't touch the cambric handkerchief in her lap. There was just exactly the shade of interest in her smile and voice:

"Really? Dixon Carter? Of course he knew me! We were friends when he was in college. I didn't know he was in Hollywood. I'd like to see him again."

Young, slim, executive, she was as attractive to the extra girls as the star herself. They called out shy greetings to her, found ways to wait on her. She was practically a girl she might help her.

Linda waited for the next time as though it were not terribly important to her.

"I'll tell him if you don't mind. I know he'd like to see you."

Linda smiled and walked away. She wanted to tell the girl her telephone number and address, but she didn't dare. Dix would know where to reach her if he wanted to. The girl had said Dix was an extra. That perplexed her, and she tried to forget it. She tried not to want to see him. But the very next morning, when he came, she told her secretary to show him in and take a message to someone four floors away and wait for him.

"Hello, Dix," she said. "Hello, Linda," he answered. "I always thought you were beautiful, but then I thought I had only imagined it... but you're just the way I've been thinking of you every day since..."

Linda didn't say anything. She couldn't say, "I still love you, too." ("To be continued")

PROTEST PROMOTION

Port Talbot, Wales (Canadian Press)—A tinplate factory, employing 900, was closed when sixty women and girls went on strike in protest against promotion of one of their fellow-workers.

HAMILTON—OVERSTALL

Before a screen banked with early spring flowers and tall standards filled with roses and delphiniums, the wedding took place yesterday evening at 8 o'clock in Oaklands Gospel Hall uniting Nora Kathleen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Overstall, Dallas Road, and Francis George, second son of Mrs. Hamilton, 28 Douglas Street, and the late Mr. Robert Hamilton. Mr. H. L. Hopkins officiated before a large congregation.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding gown ivory bridal satin, made on purely classical lines. Her veil was a family heirloom of embroidered Brussels net, and was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms, which also circled the back of the head. Her bouquet was a shower of tall pink roses and swansons and heather.

Acting as maid of honor was Miss Betty Hamilton, sister of the groom, wearing a picture frock of shell-bloom printed taffeta. Her hat was of beige mohair trimmed with French flowers, lace mittens and slippers matching her frock completed her attire, and she carried a sheaf of delphiniums and African daisies.

Miss Evelyn Slater was the only bridesmaid, becomingly gowned in white taffeta, printed in shades of rose and mauve. Triple frills were used on the full floor-length skirt, and fitted bodice and puff sleeves were trimmed with wee frills of taffeta. She also carried a sheaf of delphiniums and African daisies.

Mr. W. J. Hamilton was his brother's best man. The two ushers were Mr. Rowland Savage and Mr. William Sawyer.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the hall, which had been prettily decorated by girl friends of the bride, the four-tiered wedding cake centring the bride's table.

Assisting the young couple in receiving their many guests was Mrs. W. T. Overstall, wearing a gown of navy crepe trimmed with needle run lace, and matching coat, and navy model hat of Milan, with touches of pink; also Mrs. J. Hamilton, smartly gowned in grey triple sheer, with which she wore an imported hat of navy French straw with a band of white violets. Each wore a corsage of pink roses and violets.

Later the bride and groom left for their wedding trip, which will be spent motoring up-land and through the interior. For travelling the bride wore a frock of rose-beige crepe, grey tailored coat, her hat was of grey straw with touches of rose, and her accessories were all of matching grey.

Among the many beautiful gifts received was a silver tea service from Joseph Rose Limited, where the bride has been associated for a number of years; an electric chromium clock and an electric sandwich toaster from the staff of W. & J. Wilson, of which the groom is a member.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Overstall, Matequai B.C.; Miss Overstall, Vancouver; Mr. Taylor and Miss Gladys Taylor, Vancouver; Miss Kathleen Markham, Alameda, Cal., and Miss M. McKenzie, Shingwauk Lake.

Upon their return to Victoria Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton will reside at 28 Wellington Avenue.

STEVENS—MATTHEWS

At the First United Church yesterday evening at 7:30 o'clock, Dr. W. G. Wilson united in marriage Kathleen V. daughter of Mr. A. J. Matthews of Vancouver, and of the late Mrs. Matthews, to Mr. Alexander Victor Stevens, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Stevens, William Street, Victoria West. Mr. G. H. Peaker presided at the organ.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Alfred Matthews, wore a floor-length gown of white lace, made with full bustle sleeves, and a small turn-down collar, and her veil of embroidered tulle was arranged as a cap with a circlet of orange blossoms and formed a train. She carried a colonial bouquet of mixed flowers.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. D. Smet, was matron of honor in a frock of light green lace with a matching jacket, and a large pink flower at her throat. She also wore a sprig of pink flowers over one ear, and carried an arm bouquet of gladioli and carnations.

Miss Lillian Matthews was her sister's bridesmaid, in a frock of rose pink lace, who wore a band of pink flowers in her hair and carried a colonial bouquet, and their little niece, Pauline Huckin, was a dainty flower girl, dressed in Kate Greenaway frock of yellow organdy with a matching poke bonnet, who also carried a colonial bouquet of mixed flowers.

The reception was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall, where pink, white and yellow flowers featured the decorations, and a two-tiered cake centred the flower-decked supper table. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens Sr. were assisted in welcoming the guests by Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Stevens.

After a honeymoon in Seattle and Aberdeen, Wash., for which the bride left in a brown suit with pink accessories, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will make their home on Roseberry Avenue.

Mrs. J. M. Finn, an aunt of the bridegroom, and her daughters, Nellie and Margaret, of Omaha, Nebraska, were guests at the wedding. Among the gifts was a Sheffield silver carving set from the groom's associates in the C. & C. Taxi Service Ltd.

ing from pale to deeper tones of pink, and pink sweet peas. Her cartwheel model hat of French chenille harmonized in shade with her dress.

Mrs. Ronald Gordon as matron of honor wore pastel print silk with delicately-shaded flowers clustered on the pale blue background. Her picture hat was of natural leghorn, its brim bound with blue matching the background of the dress. Yellow marguerites and blue delphiniums formed her Colonial bouquet.

Masses of early summer flowers were arranged in artistic profusion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hager for the reception. Mrs. Phipps wore crepe with a small violet on each placket of the large collar. The long full sleeves were gathered into the wrist, and clusters of violets contrasted with her hat on grey straw with its tulle veil. Mrs. Hager chose heavy silk print with purple fuchsias and green on a white background; and fuchsia flowers were clustered on her navy hat.

Gen. Victor W. Odium proposed the marriage rites in the presence of a large congregation.

Under the direction of girl friends of the bride, the church was beautifully decorated with early summer flowers. Blue delphinium, pink peonies and pink roses were massed at the chancel rails, and with tall pink roses and swansons and heather.

BRIDE IN LACE

Entering the church to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin," the bride was a radiant figure in her graceful gown of ivory Chantilly over ivory satin lace, made on seveteen lines, the high-necked bodice buttoned at the back with tiny crystal buttons, the dolman sleeves caught closely to the wrists, with points extending over the hands. The skirt flared into a brief train. Her double veil of Calais lace was arranged beneath a becoming Tudor cap outlined with three narrow bands of satin, one brief veil falling to the shoulders, the other, extending in diaphanous folds to the hem of the skirt, was aged with exquisite d'Alembert lace. A sheaf of Calais lilles completed the lovely bridal ensemble.

Mrs. D. A. Robertson of Hope, B.C., was her sister's matron of honor, wearing a sleeveless gown of wild-rose pink organza, with a jaquette of novel cut, the flared basque showing a slight fish-tail influence at the back, while deep ruffles of the organza outlined the collar. The three-quarters sleeves were full; and a posy of French flowers in orchid tones added color relief at the low neckline. With it she wore a crownless halo of the pink organza, caught at the back with French rosebuds of the organza and velvet.

Mrs. Pat. Hudson, the only bridesmaid, chose apple green organza for her charmingly floor-length frock, which reflected the shirt-waist influence in its deep, horizontal tucks on front and back of the bodice, the hem turn-over collar and flat bow at the neckline, while the sleeves were very full and puffed. Her halo hat of apple-green organza was accented at the back with wild-rose pink organza flowers. Both attendants carried bouquets of Sweetheart roses, pink carnations and mauve sweet peas.

Mr. Leslie Fox was best man, and the ushers were Mr. T. C. Moulds and Mr. Eric Stewart. During the signing of the register, Mr. Dudley Wickett sang "O Perfect Love," accompanied at the organ by Mr. J. A. Manson.

At the conclusion of the service, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 87 Wellington Avenue. Delphinium, blue and white campanulas, fuchsias, pink peonies and Talisman roses were massed in the drawing-room, where the young couple received the felicitations of their many friends. Mrs. Fenner received the guests in a smart gown of leaf-green silk chenille in the new tailored style, over floral silk in yellow, green and blue colorings on a black ground. Her model hat was of black chenille straw and net adorned with a flat tailored bow of leaf-green velvet. She wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses and mauve sweet peas.

Mrs. Chas. Hudson assisted in receiving, and Mrs. Leslie Fox, Mrs. Laurence Green, Mrs. Maurice Green, Mrs. A. West, Mrs. Louise Matheson (Los Angeles), Mrs. Thos. Horne and Miss Jean Findley assisting in serving refreshments. Supper was served from a table covered with a handsome plaid lace cloth, centred with the three-tiered wedding cake set in a foam of pink tulip and arranged with silver vases of pink sweet peas and tall pink tapers in silver holders. Mr. Charles Hudson proposed the toast to the bride.

The young couple, who were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, left later by motor for a tour of Vancouver Island before crossing to Vancouver whence they will motor south to Los Angeles, where they will make their home. The bride travelled in a smart hand-knit frock of turquoise wool, fastened with tiny crystal buttons. With it she wore a sports hat of turquoise felt and a swagger coat of navy blue corduroy velvet, with accessories in navy blue.

HAGER—PHIPPS

Of much interest to the relatives and friends of the bride in this city was the wedding solemnized in St. John's Church, Vancouver, on Tuesday evening, when Miss Doreen Stewart Phipps became the bride of Mr. A. Robert Hager. Miss Phipps, who is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Charles Stewart Phipps, Vancouver, was attended by Mrs. Ronald Gordon as matron of honor, and given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Douglas Phipps. Mr. Hager is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hager of Vancouver. Mr. Charles Brasier acted as his best man, and Rev. W. T. Keeling officiated at the ceremony.

The bride chose a gown of dusky pink French silk chiffon, featuring lace insertions inset into the entire dress. The sleeves were large and full and tied at the wrist, and she carried a sheaf of carnations blended.

Mrs. G. R. Newell, of the staff of the McFarlane Drug Store, has just returned from Seattle, where she took a short course in the Helena Rubinstein School.

DELIGHTFUL DANCES

The bowling green made an ideal setting for the dance programme, in which the Rangers gave folk and country dances, and the pupils of St. Margaret's School, under the direction of Miss Barbara Grant, appeared in charming Greek dances.

The first number was a Greek dance, followed by the sailors' hornpipe, by Dolores Grant. Then came the Boatmen and Ruffly-Tuffy, two country dances by the Rangers, followed by a graceful ball dance by the school girls. Other Greek numbers were "Bow and Arrow," "Dancing Horses" and the Brahma's IV Waits, "Black Nag," "Parson's Farewell" and "Picking Up Sticks" were danced by the Rangers. Dolores Grant danced the Highland fling and the Irish jig, all of which were popular with the onlookers. Miss Helen Riley, of the

Quashed Is Winner of Ascot Gold Cup In Thrilling Finish

Filly Defeats Omaha By Head In Great Drive

150,000 See Last Year's Kentucky Derby Victor Lose Distance Race

BOKBUL TAKES THIRD POSITION

Canadian Press

Ascot, England, June 18.—Lord Stanley's Quashed, today won the Gold Cup. The favored Omaha, owned by William Woodward, finished second and Baron E. de Rothschild's Bokbul was third.

Quashed, winner in 1935 of the Oaks, classic for fillies, won by a short head from last year's Kentucky Derby winner. The race was over a distance of two and one-half miles.

Quashed was second choice in the betting of 3 to 1.

Omaha, four-year-old son of Galant Fox-Flambino, started as favorite at 11 to 8. Bokbul was held at 100 to 6.

Quashed is a brown four-year-old daughter of Obliterate-Verdict.

Bokbul was five lengths back of Omaha.

The Ascot Gold Cup was first run in 1807. Last year it was won by Tiberius. It is worth approximately $25,000.

Perryman had the mount on Quashed, handicapped at 123 pounds. Omaha, ridden by Pat Beasley, carried 126 pounds. Elliott rode Bokbul, which also carried 126 pounds.

SURPRISE DEFEAT

Omaha's defeat came as a surprise to supporters of the American thoroughbred. In his two previous starts in England, the Woodward colt had won the Victor Wild Stakes at one and a half miles and the Queen's Plate at two miles. He never previously had been asked to race at so long a distance as two and a half miles.

Quashed's time was 4 minutes 33.3 seconds.

The sun shone out at post time after heavy rain as 150,000 spectators watched the race, feature of the Ascot meet.

At the half-mile mark, Chaudiere led, followed by Patriot King, Buckleigh, Quashed, Valerius and Omaha. After one and a half miles, Buckleigh led, followed by Patriot King, Chaudiere, Quashed and Omaha.

Half a mile from the finish, Buckleigh still led followed by Quashed. Omaha was gaining ground at this stage, however.

As they entered the straight, Quashed had a slight lead over Omaha. A quarter-mile from the finish, Lord Stanley's entry still led by a slim margin, both going easily.

It was a herculean struggle in the final furlongs, both Quashed and Omaha racing neck and neck.

Quashed won by a short head in one of the most exciting races seen at Ascot.

Robin Goodfellow was fourth. Ten horses ran. Sir Charles Hyde's Duplicate was scratched shortly before post time. Otherwise the field was unchanged from yesterday's list of probable starters.

Quashed was the first mare or filly to win the Gold Cup since 1894.

With a gross medal score of 744, the Gyros won the Colwood Trophy for service clubs' golf teams in the competition at the Colwood links yesterday. The Kinsmen finished second with 783 and the Rotary Club third with 849. Eight men played on each side.

Sluggers Lou Gehrig, New York Yankees' iron-man first-baseman, collected six hits in eleven times at bat in yesterday's double-header with the Indians to move right on to the heels of Billy Sullivan of Cleveland, in baseball's Big Six in batting. He boosted his average nine points to .379, while Sullivan lost ground, and Stu Martin of the Cardinals gained only a single percentage point. He shared the honors for the day among the leading half dozen with Gus Suhr of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who hit safely four times out of six trips to the plate to move into third place in the National League trio among the Big Six.

JACK SPRINGS
ARE PLENTIFULMake Up Bulk of Catches in Saanich Inlet Yesterday Afternoon

Jack springs seem to predominate in the catches of fishermen in Saanich Inlet yesterday afternoon. The water was rough and not many boats ventured out to try their luck.

Len Blakney and A. S. Denney, fishing together, secured six jacks, the biggest of which was ten pounds.

Len Holyoak and party got five between five and six pounds.

Frank Smith, one of Victoria's most ardent fishermen, got a total of seven jacks. They weighed from seven to twelve pounds.

Ollie Corbett landed the biggest fish of the day, in the evening, when he dipped his line and hauled in a seventeen and three-quarter-pound spring.

Among those coming from outside points for fishing and shooting were Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, from New Zealand. Mr. Cameron is a crack trap shot and wishes to make his debut at sport fishing on this island. Mrs. Cameron is the former Miss Joan Hutchison, daughter of the late John Hutchison of this city.

The electrical workers will hold their second competition of the season in Brentwood Bay next Sunday.

A number of good prizes are on hand for those getting the big ones. The weighing in will take place on the Chinook Club's scales in McKenzie Bay. A good turnout of workers of the electrical trade is expected.

At Hotels

Business is coming back to its old level in Ceylon, according to M. G. Dover of Colombo, who was at the Empress Hotel today.

Mr. Dover is manager of the Ford Motor Company in Ceylon. He is accompanied by Mrs. Dover, who was busy this morning seeing old friends in Victoria. She attended St. Margaret's School.

Mr. Dover said his company was doing very well and spoke of the rise in the price of rubber and tea as indications of the island's prosperity.

He is considering a fishing trip up the island.

Mr. and Mrs. George Carter of Honolulu are among the new arrivals at the Empress. Mr. Carter is the son of a former governor of the Hawaiian Islands. He and Mrs. Carter plan a trip down the coast to California, from where they will sail for home.

They are accompanied by Master W. B. Harkins, Mrs. Carter's son by a former marriage.

"We had a lot of rain all the way, and we are delighted to get to Victoria and find it fine here," said Mr. and Mrs. Giuseppe Pagliano of Los Angeles, who have arrived at the Empress Hotel after a leisurely motor trip from California.

They are just waiting to see how things will pan out," he said.

"Nobody can say we have gone very far wrong with our policy in Burma, because we have not gone very far in any direction."

"I think perhaps we made the mistake of not allowing the Burman to come closer to ourselves. The disaffection of the upper middle classes comes from the fact that we did not give enough openings for native talent in the government service. We confined them to inferior posts in Burma, just as we did in India."

Mr. Justice Moseley arrived here last night after stopping off for a month in Japan. He landed in Victoria because he wanted to see a house which his wife had rented some two years ago on Rockland Avenue, but which she had given up because she found the climate too windy.

He plans to go across Canada by way of Banff and Lake Louise, stopping off for a day or two at those points and sailing for England on the R.N.S. Empress of Britain, leaving Quebec on July 27.

JAPANESE POLICY

Mr. Justice Moseley spoke at length of Japan and her present policy.

"Leading industrialists with whom I spoke and who have a large voice in the government said Japan does not want war, but is distrustful of Russian ambitions and considers her trade with China vital to her existence."

"I found the most complete ignorance as to the causes of the February incident among people who should be well informed."

"There was no evidence of martial law at all, although it was still in effect."

"The Japanese outlook at present is purely Japanese. It reminds me very much of Dickens' description of America in 'Martin Chuzzlewit.' Mr. Justice Moseley concluded."

Visitats at the Dominion Hotel today include Mrs. George Evans and G. L. Armstrong Evans from Tasmania, North Wales; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Crawford, Mrs. A. Crawford and Miss Marguerite McIntosh, Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Marshall, San Francisco.

The regular monthly meeting of Ward One, Victoria Liberal Association, will be held on Monday evening, 8 o'clock, at Liberal headquarters, corner of Government and Broughton Streets.

The bank clearings in the city for the week ending June 18 were $1,735,409, according to a statement issued this morning by the Victoria Clearing House. The figures for the same period last year were $1,508,149.

The Victoria Dickens Fellowship will hold a garden party at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of Captain and Mrs. J. E. McDonald, 452 Constance Avenue. Esquimalt. Date of the annual picnic of the Saanich Conservative Association has been switched from Dominion Day, July 1, to June 23, next Tuesday, the King's birthday. The secretary announced today. Prominent Conservative speakers will be heard at the meeting, at Beaver Lake, and a sports programme has been arranged.

Among those coming from outside points for fishing and shooting were Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, from New Zealand. The slogan "Spare Our Wildflowers" which is impressed on letters by the post office along with the regular post mark is apparently not universally popular. The Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau today received a letter from S. Simon of Sooke inclosing another letter from a friend in New York expressing the opinion that a place which boasts of an abundance of everything should not object to the picking of a few wildflowers, and advertise the fact on mail sent to all parts of the world

Wealth and Credit Principles
Subject of Talk By
C. J. McDowell

An intricate structure had been built up around money and credit by bankers and bond houses who seemed to have gone to great pains to tangle things up as far as the average man was concerned, but in their basic principles they were quite easy to understand, said C. J. McDowell in an address to Ward Five Liberal Association last night.

Wealth, said the speaker, was neither money nor bank credit. It was anything that was of use to humanity. Money was useless unless it could be used as a means of exchange for wealth.

The financial troubles of the world started when people began to loan money and charge interest. For a long time the only form of money was metal, until the Rothschilds popularized paper about a century ago.

The earning or producing capacity of an individual or state was the basis for credit, he pointed out. The credit of municipalities and governments was backed by the ability to raise enough by taxation to repay loans and pay interest. Taxpayers thus had to produce new wealth with which to pay the taxes.

Mr. McDowell thanked those who had worked for him in the campaign with a special reference to the fairness of the press.

E. M. Whyte presided and Major H. M. McGiverin, Liberal association president, spoke briefly on organization matters.

They are accompanied by Master W. B. Harkins, Mrs. Carter's son by a former marriage.

"We had a lot of rain all the way, and we are delighted to get to Victoria and find it fine here," said Mr. and Mrs. Giuseppe Pagliano of Los Angeles, who have arrived at the Empress Hotel after a leisurely motor trip from California.

They are just waiting to see how things will pan out," he said.

"Nobody can say we have gone very far wrong with our policy in Burma, because we have not gone very far in any direction."

"I think perhaps we made the mistake of not allowing the Burman to come closer to ourselves. The disaffection of the upper middle classes comes from the fact that we did not give enough openings for native talent in the government service. We confined them to inferior posts in Burma, just as we did in India."

FAMED COMEDY PAIR AT ATLAS

Wheeler and Woolsey Play
Leading Roles in New Picture "The Rainmakers"

Choosing aridity as a background for collecting human, and forsaking urban subtlety for suburban simplicity, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey bring to the screen a new and refreshing type of comedy in "The Rainmakers," their latest RKO feature, now at the Atlas Theatre.

As a "scientist," inventor of a rain-making machine guaranteed to produce anything from a drizzle to a downpour, Woolsey fits into a new role with side-splitting effects on his spectators. In his efforts to make good (and to make rain), he is ludi-crously assisted by Wheeler, a dirt-faced man at heart whose life is a complex of dust and brain storms.

The picture has a splendid cast, including Dorothy Lee, Beaton
Churchill, George Meeker and Frederick Roland.

Les Marcus produced "The Rain-makers" for RKO Radio and Fred Gould directed.

Also being shown as the second feature is "Drake of England," with Matheson Lang.

Lovely Miss Arthur has to pursue

Powell instead of being pursued, in this RKO Radio mystery thriller. The reason: She is a mystery writer who loves her work, and the peace-loving Powell's nerves cannot stand Miss Arthur's imagining every meal to be poisoned, and looking for death and disaster during every waking moment.

"SHOW BOAT" CAPITOL FILM

Rarely has a play exerted such an emotional grip on actors who have taken part in it, as has "Show Boat,"

the Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein musical drama which comes to the Capitol Theatre Saturday.

The hold that the production has on performers is indicated by the overwhelming desire of troupe to repeat their "Show Boat" roles.

Letters came to Universal studios from all over the country. Players who had, at one time or another, been in a stage presentation of "Show Boat," requested that they be allowed to repeat their parts in the photoplay.

But when all the roles had been filled, there were still 100 former actors from "Show Boat" companies who could not be placed in the cast, unless Universal wanted to make a

Paul Muni comes to the screen of the Plaza Theatre today in what is said to be his greatest film characterization. "The Story of Louis Pasteur," a Cosmopolitan production released by First National.

Muni portrays Louis Pasteur, the great French chemist and bacteriologist who contributed so much to science. The story, by Sheridan
Glenny and Pierre Collings, centres about Pasteur's battle against ignor-

Realizing Follows Wall Street Move To Higher Levels

Associated Press

New York, June 18.—The stock market puffed along an ascending trend today in the wake of improving business news.

Although profit-taking rats slowed progress occasionally, gains of fractions to a point or more predominated at the close. Transfers were around 950,000 shares.

Realizing was a little more in evidence in the final hour and many earlier advances were pased or canceled.

Carrier equities held the buying play from the start, although some of the liquor, aviation, oil, tobacco and farm machinery issues had their minnings.

Santa Fe got up 8 points at one time, but yielded part of this later. Among favored stocks were Northern Pacific, N.Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Schenley, U.S. Industrial Alcohol, Standard Oils of New Jersey and California, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Sperry, Liggett and Myers B, Phillip Morris, Corn Products and International Harvester.

Leaders that slipped a shade in either direction included U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, General Motors, Chrysler, Standard Brands, Consolidated Edison, North American, American Water Works and Westinghouse.

Woolworth was a firm spot but the other merchandising shares failed to reflect bonus spending hopes to any great extent. The power section was also on the fence most of the time.

Bonds were steady, with French and Italian loans popular, foreign currencies were quiet. Corn was 1/4 to 1 1/4 cents a bushel higher and wheat down 1/4 to 1/2 cent.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Can you help a very unhappy woman? I am thirty-five years old with three small children. My husband is a good man and a good provider, but he isn't at all lively and gay. After work he just sits down and reads the newspaper while I love to go out dancing. Last week I went to a dance with a friend of mine and met a stunning fellow of twenty-five with whom I have fallen violently in love. He has no job, but I could always get my old one back at my former office. He wants me to run away with him and I am tempted to do so. Do you think I could be happy with him away from my husband? Please help me. I don't know which way to turn.

BEWILDERED BY LIFE.

Answer — It doesn't take any traffic cop to tell you which way to turn. Take the right-hand turn and keep going along the strait and narrow road if you want to save yourself from going over the precipice into the pit from which there is no climbing back. When a middle-aged married woman with a good husband, a good home and children gets a brain storm that makes her even contemplate throwing them in the diancard for a dancing boy without a penny to his name, she is a case for an alienist and needs to have her head examined.

No sane person would even dream of committing such a folly, and if you have an impulse that you feel you cannot resist to slope with this lad and throw not only your bonnet over the windmill but everything else in life that is worth having, I strongly urge you to go to the nearest lunatic asylum and get yourself locked up until you come to your senses.

In the meantime, will you sit down and try to calmly think your problem out? Put your husband and children and home and place in society and your comfortable living on the scales and weigh them against disgrace, poverty, the loss of your children, with the only compensation of having somebody to dance with. And without money you can't even dance much. Nor will you feel much like dancing if you have to support a husband and come home dog tired at night.

Your one complaint against your husband is that he doesn't want to step out of nights. It has always seemed to me that that is the least fault that a husband can possibly have, and that it is one upon which a wife should look with a very lenient eye because the reason it is hard to pry him out of his easy-chair of an evening is because he has worked so hard all day trying to make money for her that he is exhausted. Anyway, there is no reason why the woman who craves diversion should not be able to get it in the daytime. There are plenty of movies and card parties and tea dances and amusements to which she can go in the afternoon if she is so minded.

Having once tasted ease and luxury and being accustomed to pretty clothes that a good husband provides you with, you will not like going back to hard work and a small salary and penny-pinching. When the day comes when you can't afford a permanent, and your stomach revolts at cheap food, and you loathe the sordid room in which you have to live, a boy husband will look a pretty poor bargain for all you gave up for him.

And the children. The babies. Believe me, if you forsake them even for a dancing dervish you will never know one single moment's happiness. No man's love will compensate you for the love of your children. They are such little things. So helpless. So dependent on you.

If you run off with this man you will lie awake at night wondering who is taking care of them, wondering if they are covered up in their sleep, wondering if they miss you, and your soul will sicken within you as you know that they will grow up to be ashamed of you and to hate your memory for the shame you have brought upon them. Don't commit this criminal folly, I beg of you. Turn to the right.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—For the last five years I have been earning $95 a month and giving my mother $50, keeping the other $45 for my clothes and other expenses. My family is not rich, but we live quite comfortably. However, whatever is theirs is not mine, and now I am getting anxious to lay up something for myself. I am not a spendthrift, even have a knack of saving, and I'd like not only the financial independence of having my own bank account but to save something for my old age in case I never marry, or go to housekeeping on if I do marry. Would $30 a month be enough to pay my mother?

Answer—You certainly could not get comfortable board anywhere else for $30 a month except in your own home, but, on the other hand, your board probably does not cost your mother $30 a month, as she makes no change in the family table or the housing because of you.

How much a girl who works should pay at home depends very much on the financial status of the family. If they are poor and are having a hard time making ends meet, then she should be willing to divide generously with them. But if the family is in comfortable circumstances, I think that the girl should be called upon to contribute very little, if any, to the upkeep of the house.

Mothers are seldom fair with their daughters about what they earn. They take a daughter's pay envelope as a matter of course, but they never think of taking their son's, yet a girl has just as much right to the money she earns as a boy has.

I think you are quite right in wanting to establish your own financial independence. It gives a girl poise and self-respect to have her own bank account, and it makes her more saving, too, because there is no amusement more exciting than watching a bank account grow.

Furthermore, it is only by experience that we learn how to handle money. Talk this matter over with your mother and come to some conclusion. Probably she doesn't realize that she has been taking more than half you make.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—What do you think of girls wearing shorts?

MISS 1936.

Answer—I think that skirts are mighty kind to us females and that, while a Venus de Milo might appear in shorts without giving the beholder a pain in the neck, that the average girl had better not risk it. If you are contemplating going in for shorts, get the opinion of your worst enemy on your legs before you try it.

DOROTHY DIX.

Uncle Wiggly and the Rain

By HOWARD R. GARIS
Last night you remember, I told you about the swimming race between Jackie and Pettie Bow Wow and how Jackie suddenly slipped and fell into the water. Uncle Wiggly was watching on the bank shouted to Pettie: "See what's the matter with Jackie?"

"What is it at all?" Jackie chuckled. "I was an adventurer, and I was always one for an adventure! Come on, let's run!"

And Uncle Wiggly suddenly as he disappeared.

Jackie came to the top again.

"Oh, my goodness! He gasped as soon as he could catch his breath. "That was the strangest thing that ever happened to me!"

"Are you all right?" Uncle Wiggly asked him his brother. "Can you reach the side of the turtle?"

"Oh, I'm all right now," Jackie said. "But I guess I lost the race. You could have seen me if you had seen me."

"Never mind that, Pettie said. "Tell us what happened! What made you go under water?"

"I was a voice remarked a little way off in the water. 'I didn't mean to, though.'

"It was an accident," Uncle Wiggly exclaimed. "Did you pull Jackie under water, Mr. Turtle?"

"I did and I didn't," the turtle answered, floating on the surface of the water. "You see, here's how it was. I was swimming along under the water and I had some very fine weeds in my mouth. They were just the sort I like to chew on. They were very fine, too, and I was chewing on them when I heard a noise. Jackie's paws got tangled in them. He was pulled under. And that's just how it is."

"That certainly was queer," Pettie declared. "I thought I should have known those weeds were growing on the swimming pond. What did you think it was, Jackie?"

"I had no idea," the puppy boy replied. "I just knew that something was holding me under water. I was swimming on the thing around my paws and then I got free. But I was rather scared for a moment."

"I should think you would have been," Uncle Wiggly agreed. "Now, all come along with me. There are some delicious biscuits which were the prize in the swimming race. Would you care for some, Mr. Turtle?"

"No, I thank you," said the turtle. "I'm not very hungry. But you had better hurry."

Shipwrecked Crew Landed in Halifax

Halifax, June 18.—Landed in Halifax after being picked up by the liner that sank their vessel, Capt. James Gosling and the twenty-four members of the crew of the Newfoundland schooner Beatrice Vivian sailed on board the steamship Portia for home yesterday.

The 100-ton banker Beatrice Vivian was rammed by the Anchor liner California, en route from Glasgow to New York, twenty-five miles off Cape Race last Thursday, but the 17,000-ton steamer put about and picked up the twenty-four fishermen who had taken to the dories.
